VISIONS of DESIGN

An Inspired Collection of North America's Finest Interior Designers

Another Fine Book From PANACHE

Who wouldn't want to be an interior designer? The opportunity to work in such a beautiful medium, enhance the lives of fascinating people and travel the world gleaming inspiration at every turn is all too enticing. But few have the innate creativity, attention to detail and sheer patience that it takes to envision, orchestrate and produce original design after original design. It is these interior designers—just upward of 60 of North America's most respected and acclaimed—who are celebrated in Visions of Design. Alongside photographs of their best work, the professionals reveal their inspirations: why they chose certain pieces or finishes, what type of lifestyle their composition responds to, and how they came up with the innovative twists that make their designs special.

The work and philosophies of professionals like Stan Topol, Barbara Lane and Geoffrey Bradfield will leave a lasting impression, as will the brilliance of Paul Vincent Wiseman, Suzanne Lovell, Douglass Weiss, William R. Eubanks and dozens of their industry peers.

Each of the designers featured in Visions of Design has a unique personal aesthetic, yet is well versed in and more than capable of creating interiors in a wide array of styles. The diversity of these professionals' abilities is impressive and oftentimes unexpected. Those accustomed to designing contemporary lofts in the city are just as likely to design rustic dwellings in a classic European style. And many designers in less urban areas, who are accustomed to traditional aesthetics, are commissioned by an international clientele to create sleek spaces. Regardless of where their studios are based, the designers—and their work—transcend region. Toronto's metropolitan spaces, New York's sophisticated living environments, California's coastal chic, the graciousness of the South, the warmth of the Midwest, and the desert region's characteristic mystique are sure to inspire your own interiors—wherever it is you call home.
